TALKING TO KIDS ABOUT CULTS: PROVIDING THE BASICS

by Paul Borthwick

About forty students from our youth group gathered for a football game after church. Several members of the leadership team were there, but none of our adult volunteers. Three men approached the group. They came from The Way, a local cultic group that adheres to heretical teachings about Jesus, salvation, and the Holy Spirit.

As they engaged our students in conversation, they asked questions and made assertions that bothered the young people, but none of the members could quite put his finger on the problem. One student later told me, "We smelled a theological problem, but we didn't know how to uncover it."

I drove by the field, and one of the students flagged me down. He explained the situation and asked if I could help. I stopped, interacted with the cult evangelist, and asked a few questions about salvation and the deity of Christ, and the three men retreated.

From the students' perspective, we had "won." But the experience disappointed me. It showed me that even my student leaders did not really know how to handle the situation. It reminded me that these students -- many of whom would soon be on their own in college -- did not know how to respond to the myriad of cults that they might face in the years ahead.

*Addressing Cult Questions

Across the country and around the world, Christians face the challenge of cults -- those groups whose overemphasis on one issue or error in another have led them away from the orthodox, evangelical faith. Some cults -- like the Mormons, Jehovah's Witnesses, or Christian Scientists -- have been around for years. Others are being formed today.

Equipping our students to be Christians in the world means training them to identify and respond to cults. In my group members' encounter, the young people knew there was something theologically wrong, but they had no idea how to uncover the error or respond to it. Effectively equipping our teens in this respect will involve versing them in the answers to the questions like the following:

- * Who is Jesus Christ?
- * Is Jesus God?
- * What is the basis for forgiveness? For salvation?
- * Why did Jesus die on the cross?
- * What do you believe about the resurrection?

* How Do You Approach This Topic?

We must address realistically the attractive doctrines that cults teach. A young woman from our church joined a cult that taught that salvation was based on works. She was drawn to this group because she had never been able to accept the idea of salvation through faith alone. She had come from a rigid family where affection was "earned," and she never experienced unconditional love. When she was presented with the idea of needing to work hard to earn the love of a hard-to-please God, she fell prey to heresy.

Insecure men may be drawn to a cult that denigrates women. Those who need to have everything fully explained will be attracted to cults that teach that Jesus was only a man and not God incarnate. Students who are bored with "powerless" Christianity may be drawn to experiment with satanism because it appears to offer more in terms of the miraculous and dramatic.

Cults succeed because they teach doctrines or promote ideas that often have a greater appeal than the truth. Our task is to explain these attractive aspects of cultic teaching and then respond with our convictions as to why orthodox and biblical faith is still the answer.

We must recognize the social environment that attracts some to cults. In an age of dysfunctional families and the breakdown of authority, people's attraction to cults often stems from the social structure the cults create. Their regimented "fellowships" may provide some with a security that our church groups may never provide. People with lives in disarray will be drawn to authoritarian teaching that promises to get their lives in order. Young people may find in cults the love they never experienced at home.

The social attractiveness of some cults cannot be overlooked. This attraction should cause us to evaluate what is lacking in our own fellowships, and then try to respond. In addition, it should cause us to teach students the significance of not letting emotion rule our understanding of theology.

*Be cautious.

Students may show a great interest in studying cults, but often this interest is motivated by a voyeuristic curiosity or a desire to show that "we are right and they are wrong!" As leaders, therefore, we must be cautious about some of the potential pitfalls.

Caution #1: Exemplify "speaking the truth in love." Our experience with the evangelists from The Way illustrated an attitude that we now try to avoid. The students felt like we "won" when my questions sent the evangelists away.

Our goal is not to win arguments. Our goal is to teach students how to defend their faith so that they will be protected from heresy and able to explain the true Gospel to people lost in cultic error. If we present cult members as our enemies, we often promote in students a desire to destroy. Instead, we need to foster love so that students desire to win people out of their error to the love and mercy of Christ.

Caution #2: Don't gloss over the tough issues. In presenting the Christian perspective on cultic error, it is easy for us to want to present an "easy" understanding of the truth. As a result, we may try to oversimplify difficult passages like those in Acts, which seem to make baptism part of salvation.

If all of these issues were vividly clear and easy to understand, why would there be cults? The fact remains: Attacking the issues raised by cults lead us into some strenuous theology -- like explaining the Trinity. Be willing to take the time to wrestle with these issues so that we present a credible Gospel to inquiring students.

Caution #3: Don't present "our brand" of Christianity as the only option. Studies concerning cults can lead to an unfortunate spirit of "witch hunting." Uncovering one error in one group can lead to the creation of theological detectives who dedicate themselves to uncovering error in all other groups. The net result can be the creation of another cultic group -- if we get to the point where we believe that our group alone has all the truth and everybody else is mistaken.

* Stretch Some Minds.

Remember that our goal as teachers, youth leaders, or pastors is to present the truth and encourage students to interact with it themselves. It is better to teach students discernment than it is to overwhelm them with dogma that they memorize without thinking. Our goal is to teach our young people how to think in addition to affirming the biblical doctrines of the Christian faith.

One of the errors of manipulative cults is the attitude that keeps group members from asking questions or challenging the teachings of the group. We can avoid that same error by encouraging interaction, listening to all of the questions that arise, and letting the Bible provide our answers.

YOUTH CAMP '94 REPORT

Praise the Lord from Whom all blessings flow! The Missouri State Youth Camp Board would like to report the numbers for what they feel was a "banner" year at all of our camp sessions for 1994.

Registration was up for the second year in a row with 1,234 registered (an increase of 25 over 1993). We are thankful to report 110 salvation decisions (up 19 over last year). There were 127 rededications and three special callings. Our missions offering was $1,233.29 which was an increase of $247.85 over last year's offering.

The Youth Camp Board would like to express their appreciation to all of the churches, organizations, and individuals who gave of their time and treasures to help make "Youth Camp '94" a great success. We feel that Youth Camp is a vital ministry in reaching young people for Christ and providing spiritual training and fellowship among our Free Will Baptist youth.

The Camp Board would like to thank Brother Ken and Sister Judy Goff for the many hours that they put into our youth camp throughout the year. The Goffs are available to represent our youth camp at any local church service. They would be glad to come at the request of your church.

Please pray for our youth camp ministry. Thank you again for all that you do.

My Testimony

by Robert Lane First Free Will Baptist Church of DeSoto

Now listen to me, brother, while I tell the story; How I found salvation and a home in Glory. In a little country church on my knees in prayer I left my soul in the Saviour's care. I'd been sitting back in a corner dim And while the preacher was preaching, I was mocking him. I'd giggle and laugh and have all sorts of fun And I've never since seen such carrying on.

When they called for sinners to come for prayer I'd get up and sneak out of there.
I'd go outside, stand around and smoke;
Cuss a little bit and tell filthy jokes.
But then one night I heard the mournful pleas
Of the sinners at the altar down on their knees.
I knew it wasn't right for me to be out there,
I should be at the altar seeking God in prayer.

Oh, I had the feeling that I wanted to pray But decided I'd wait till some other day. I dismissed the thought with a shake of the head As I thought of all the things my buddies had said. This religion ain't worth a plugged nickel, they say Nobody ever keeps it very long anyway. Old what's-his-name, he got saved today But he's gone to town now some poker to play.

They pointed out that you just have to quit A lot of things you like to do whenever you repent. You can't ever get out and have a lot of fun. If you live your religion, then your good times are done. Well, the next night, though I didn't mean to stay I went up in the house, oh about half way.

I sat there and listened to that preacher talk
Thinking when they call for mourners, out of there I'll walk.
But the preacher said death was the wages of sin,
And I thought of all the sinful places I'd been.
At the tavern over here on top of the hill
I'd drunk a lot of whiskey and beer but still -Was it really fun, I asked myself,
To lay my soul aside on the shelf
And go on living such a life of sin?
And then I thought of the home that I was brought up in.

Now if my folks died, they'd join a band Of saints over on the golden strand. But if I should die what would happen to me? Where would I spend eternity? In a devil's hell? Oh, God forbid! So I jumped up and here's what I did: I made my way to that mourner's seat And in the blessed Jesus, found a safe retreat.

So the robe of sin I'd worn so long
Got traded in for a gospel song.
And there is no doubt I was saved by grace;
There were Christians shouting all over the place.
Oh! can you imagine the joy for me
When now I think of eternity?
For I know there's a home far over the way
Where I'm going to live some brighter day.
And as I travel on through this world below,
I'd like all the unsaved here to know
That they'll never really know what fun is,
Till they know what the love of God's Son is.

First Church - Willow Springs Celebrates Being Debt Free

The First Free Will Baptist Church of Willow Springs celebrated being debt free on July 31, 1994. Pastor David Carroll led in the special services. He introduced the Rev. Gene Crewse, a former pastor, to deliver the morning message. Following the good morning service a delicious dinner was provided by the church.

The afternoon service included special singing, testimonies, reading the church history, and a devotion by Rev. Clarence Burton. The mortgage burning ceremony, led by the pastor, expressed the thanksgiving and joy felt by the church.

The First Free Will Baptist Church was founded September 29, 1977, with the following 25 charter members: John and Pat Beasley; Ralph and Opal Cook; Radell, Judy, Chad, Jill, and Craig Emmerson; Gary and Linda Gibson; Don, Mary, John, and Leslie Heard; Oneta and Netta Holloway; Paul and Lilly Jones; Dale and JoAnn Shaw; Bill, Nona, and David Watkins; Thelma and Lloyd Shriver. Rev. Ralph Cook was called as the first pastor and the church was named the Wayside Free Will Baptist Church. The name of the church was changed to First Free Will Baptist in 1985.

A meeting place was rented from the Seventh-Day Adventist Church until a loan was acquired to purchase land and build a basement. After the basement was constructed, the church moved to its present location on September 3, 1978. The men and women of the church labored together to build the sanctuary over the basement. God honored the people's contributions of labor and materials with a beautiful place to worship.

Six pastors have served the church during its seventeen-year history: Rev. Ralph Cook, Rev. Don Robertson, Rev. Gene Crewse, Rev. Ron Taylor, Rev. Carl Davis, and the present pastor, Rev. David Carroll. A number of Deacons have served the church including Radell Emerson, Lloyd Shriver, Dale Shaw, Bill Watkins, Pete Smith, Bill Wilson, and Jay Dyck.

VBS Held at Springfield First

Vacation Bible School was held at the First Free Will Baptist Church in Springfield during the week of June 20-24. The week was preceded by a teacher installation service on Sunday, June 19. This gave the workers a time to pray for God's guidance for this extraordinary week.

The theme for VBS was "Celebrate Jesus!" In addition to the dedicated and loving teachers, the teens assisted with music and taught classes. Preschool ages through junior ages enjoyed classes, music, and crafts. The craft time reflected each day's lesson, and nutritious lunches were served daily. Following classtime daily, the students listened to preaching. Two souls were saved and there were three rededications.

VBS '94

The offering of $204.55 was sent to the Foreign Missions Department for the C. I. S. Russian Ministries Project to share the gospel in a land hungering for the Word. Students brought rolled pennies each day with the girls bringing the most.

Commencement services were held on Sunday, June 26. Springfield First is thankful for the wonderful VBS and all of the dedicated workers who helped make the week a success.

New Life Church Is Debt Free

Sunday, August 14, was a beautiful day and a very special day for the New I ife Free Will Baptist Church of Licking, MO. It was special because the church gathered to celebrate being debt free.

The morning worship service was well attended and the congregation received a warm welcome from Pastor Mark Williford. The happy mood of the congregation was reflected in the good singing, both the congregational and special music which was provided by the church quartet. The mortgage burning ceremony was conducted by the pastor and the church board. Before burning the mortgage, Brother Williford said that being debt free was a pleasure, a victory, and a time of thanksgiving. A prayer of thanksgiving was led by Deacon Gary Routh.

God of the Hills and the Valleys

by Rev. Ben Scott

(This GEM FROM THE PAST originally ran in the January 1957 issue.)

In the book of I Kings, chapter 20, we read the account of the Syrian army going out to battle the army of Israel. Quite unexpectedly to the king of Syria his army was conquered and most of his men were slain. Those who were not slain were sorely pursued by Israel's soldiers.

Ben-hadad, the king of Syria, missed being slaughtered with his army by escaping with some horsemen on a horse. Having escaped alive, he began to plan another battle with Israel. In discussing the reason for failure in his previous attempt, Benhadad and his servants offered this excuse: "Their Gods are Gods of the Hills; therefore they were stronger than we." I Kings 20:23.

Our God is not One to retreat from a challenge. He offers Himself freely to all in every trying experience of life, saying "Try Me, Prove Me!" Because His power had been challenged another meeting in battle was arranged between the Syrians and Israel. In I Kings 20:27 we read, "And the children of Israel were numbered, and were all present, and went against them: and the children of Israel pitched them like two little flocks of kids; but the Syrians filled the country." This meeting was in the plain, or valley. It was not in the hills. But whether in the hills or in the valleys, an army with God in the camp is better than the most powerful army in the world without God.

God never fails when put to the test. Nor was He to fail this time. I Kings 20:29-30 states, "And it was so, that in the seventh day the battle was joined: and the children of Israel slew of the Syrians an hundred thousand footmen in one day. But the rest fled to Apek, into the city; and there a wall fell upon twenty and seven thousand of the men that were left." No longer could the king's servants say, "Their God is only a God of the hills!"

As we find ourselves now facing the new year we are made to wonder just what lies before us. As one of old has said, "Ye have not passed this way before." Undoubtedly there will be some mountain-top experiences for the faithful; but there are also some valley experiences ahead. May I suggest for your consideration just a few of the valleys through which some of us may pass in the year ahead.

1. The Valley of Temptation

Surely it was a "Mountain-top" experience for our Lord when, at His baptism in Jordan, the Heavens were opened. It must have been a source of blessing and strength for Him to have the witness of the Spirit and to hear the Father say, "This is My beloved Son." It would have been wonderful to have stayed there but there was a "Wilderness" to be conquered.

Satan never tempted Christ while He was receiving this wonderful experience in Jordan. But he came to Jesus in the wilderness. Not many church members backslide during times of unusual revival showers. It's not hard to be a Christian when surrounded by fellow Christians. But Satan meets you in the valley. It is there that many fall victim to his temptations and surrender to him. Not so with our Lord! He met the tempter like a good soldier. He returned blow for blow. He went through the valley of temptation and came out victor! So can we if we draw from the storehouse of God's power. I Cor. 10:13 declares, "There hath no temptation taken you but such as is common to man: but God is faithful, Who will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able; but will with the temptation also make a way to escape, that ye may be able to bear it."

2. The Valley of Discouragement

This is a valley through which we all must surely pass sooner or later. There are times when it seems everything is going perfectly. During these times it's not hard to stay in the race. But there are also times of discouragement; times when it seems everything goes wrong. This valley is not uncommon to God's people. Who is there who has not at some time or other become discouraged? In Numbers 21:4 we read of Israel, "And they journeyed from mount Hor by the way of the Red Sea, to compass the land of Eden, and the soul of the people was much discouraged because of the way."

Discouragement is a favorite tool of Satan. Through discouragement the powerful Elijah became a hide-away weakling. He became a victim of self-pity, saying, "I'm the only one left and they seek my life." There is one, tho, who is Lord even of the valley of discouragement. Read Isa. 42:1-3 "Behold My servant, Whom I uphold; Mine elect, in Whom My soul delighteth; I have put My Spirit upon Him: He shall not fail nor be discouraged." Surely the same Spirit is ours today. Through the power of that Spirit we can walk through the valley of discouragement and still keep our faith in God. The real test of a Christian is how he acts in the valley. It was in the valley David killed Goliath; It was in the valley Gideon's army was tested, leaving him only 300 men. It's in the valley that many lose sight of Christ and "wash out."

3. The Valley of Death

This is a valley from which we shrink. However, death is more than a dream; it is an actual reality, an ordeal which is coming to all. It is very likely that someone who reads this message will pass through the valley of death in 1957. Are you prepared for this journey? Even in the very hour of death it is possible that Satan may tempt us. Having never gone through this valley we are still in wonder as to what it is like. None of our friends have come back from this journey to tell us about it. We are not left without promise and consolation, tho. The Bible, God's Holy Word, gives to us some definite promises concerning death. The Psalmist declared in Psalms 23:4 "Yea, tho I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil; for Thou art with me; Thy rod and Thy staff they comfort me."

Isa. 41:10 offers us these words: "Fear thou not; for I am with thee: be not dismayed; for I am thy God: I will strengthen thee; yea I will uphold thee with the right hand of My righteousness." In verse 13 we read: "For I the Lord thy God will hold thy right hand, saying unto thee, Fear not, I will keep thee."

What more can we ask? God took care of His servant, Moses. He sent a convoy of angels for Lazarus. He rolled back the Heavens for Stephen. Will He forsake one of His in the valley of death? Never!

In conclusion may I offer the words of a familiar song as an appropriate prayer.

"When my way groweth drear, precious Lord linger near; When my life is almost gone; Hear my cry, hear my call, hold my hand lest I fall; Take my hand, precious Lord, lead me home."

Remember, friend; Our God is also God of the valleys!

Enrollment Increase at Free Will Baptist Bible College

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE—Free Will Baptist Bible College has posted a 6 percent enrollment increase over that of a year ago, according to Dr. Charles E. Hampton, Registrar. The college enrolled 354 students from 27 states and eight foreign countries for the current fall semester.

States with the best representations are Tennessee (75), Illinois (33), Alabama (29) and North Carolina (25). Foreign students have come from Brazil, Canada, France, Korea, Mexico, Pakistan, Panama, and Romania.

By states/foreign countries, the current student body breaks down as follows:

This is the fourth year of a fall enrollment spiral that began at the college in 1991. To God be the glory!

Please pray for the administration, faculty, staff, and student body throughout the school year.

Free Will Baptist Bible College NEWS RELEASE

September 12, 1994 FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE—Free Will Baptist Bible College officials have just taken the first step toward moving the campus by purchasing 122.8 acres of land on the outskirt of Nashville for $265,000, according to President Tom Malone. The land rolls gently between Interstate 24 and U.S. 41-A (Clarksville Highway) in the northwest part of Davidson County. It is bordered by woodlands on three sides and is ideally suited to the construction of dormitories, a classroom complex, a library, a chapel, and all of the other necessary buildings. The contract was signed on September 1.

The college's growing enrollment has increased the urgency of considering a move. Enrollment this fall has left the college with few remaining rooms on campus in which to place students. At the present rate, the college will fill available dormitory space in the next year or two. At that point, the college will have to either build or move. Zoning laws will not permit the college to buy buildings in the area and convert them for use as dormitories. Also, property values in the West End area of Nashville, where the college is located, have increased dramatically in the last 10 years. That is both good and bad for the college. It is good in that the property the college owns is worth more than it was just a few years ago. But it also makes it nearly impossible for the college to grow in its present location. These considerations have made it necessary for college officials to seriously search for a new location.

"We feel that God has given us this property," President Malone told members of the College Family on the day of its purchase.

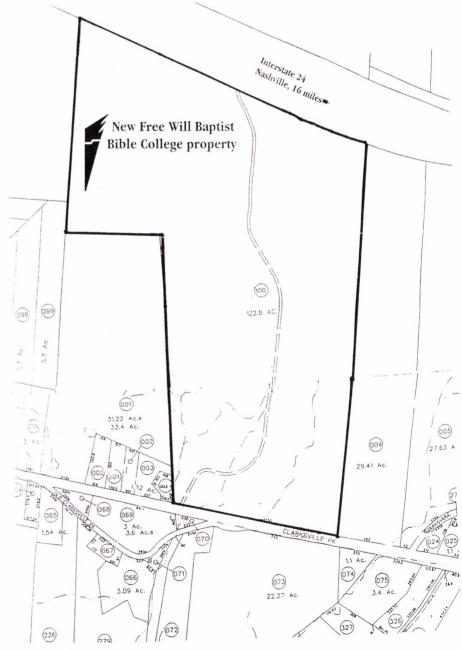

The land is in the Joelton area of Nashville, approximately 16 miles from downtown, in a growing part of the city. Gas and water are already available on the site and sewer lines are less than half a mile away. "The value of this property will increase significantly when the sewer line is extended," Dr. Malone said. It has a frontage of 1,250 feet on Clarksville Highway and approximately double that bordering the Interstate.

Residents of the Joelton area held a town meeting August 30 to express their feelings about FWBBC locating in their area. The response was overwhelmingly favorable. "They understand the kind of college we are, says Dr. Malone. "They see us as an asset to their community and a positive factor in attracting the businesses they want."

The property will be either partially or totally paid for when four recent bequests to the college are all settled. These people remembered the college in their wills and proceeds from their estates will go toward the land purchase. However, there will be expenses for developing the property and, eventually, for building. The college will not begin a fund-raising campaign to move or make a final decision concerning relocation without denominational approval.

Several inquiries have been made expressing interest in buying the college's present campus. Dr. Malone is awaiting proposals to see what will be the best approach to securing the maximum price for what Free Will Baptists have spent more than 50 years acquiring. One of the key factors in determining if and when the college can be moved will be how much the present campus is worth.

Please pray with the administration, that God will lead clearly and that they will follow Him faithfully in this matter.

The Youth Look

The Abuse of Child Abuse

by Ann Poletti

Last month, this column focused on the disturbing numbers regarding child abuse.

There is a problem even if only one child is abused, but when 7,945 children are abused/neglected daily in America, and three of them die daily as a result of this abuse, there appears to be an epidemic.

However, this may not be necessarily so. That's why we'll focus this month on the flipside of abuse: The abuse of child abuse. As disturbing as these sad numbers is the fact that the child protection services (CPS) which we look to for protecting these abused children are making a business out of people's concerns about abuse.

Don Quixote once said, "Facts are enemies of the truth." The truth is the numbers we grieve over often are padded. For example, one study shows 2.936 million children were reported to CPS in 1993; however, this was how many reports were received. You may ask, What's the difference? Consider that one incident of spanking can result in three charges: misdemeanor child abuse, dependency and neglect, and emotional abuse. Three reports for one spanking... and, if it's revealed the child has received two spankings, the number doubles, and so on. Because one can report abuse anonymously, the number can appear higher as a result of an angry ex-spouse, neighbor, or landlord being able to call anonymously and not have to provide any evidence. Without having to leave a name, no one is held accountable if the report is false.

Another reason numbers may be inaccurate is due to the "big business of child abuse." One county can receive $46,000 in federal funds for each charge of sexual abuse. It does not have to be proven, just a simple charge.

Money is also an issue when one considers that legislation provides that Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) checks must follow the child. Because CPS seems to feel a child is better off in foster care, the county will come out money ahead when an AFDC-receiving child is placed in foster care for the county will receive the funds. Since the parents will be billed for the foster care, the county has profited.

The reports of innocent parents being accused are harrowing. One such example involves an eight-year-old girl who was removed from her bed and taken through a bedroom window in the middle of the night. The man brutally abused her sexually then returned her to her bed. The next morning, her parents began to suspect an infection based on her complaints so they took her to a clinic. Immediately, sexual abuse was confirmed, and CPS entered. Despite the victim's denial of any parental involvement, DNA tests' proving the father innocent, and the conviction of a man on a similar incident in the same neighborhood, the child was removed from her home. CPS believes guilty people always say they're innocent and, if nothing else, the parents "allowed" this violence to occur. The events which followed were devastating. but the family eventually reunited...2 1/2 years later... following the mother's attempted suicide . . . after costing $260,000 PRIOR to being billed for 2 1/2 years of the child's foster care.

In their defense, some social workers are genuinely concerned for children. However, many have endured abuse as children and chose this field to prevent other kids' suffering. With them, they bring a distorted view of the family. It may be one of these workers who determines that a child forced into foster care who, while seeing a parent during a supervised visit, clings to the parent has been sexually abused based on the child's desire to be hugged by the parent.

It may be one of these workers who suspects abuse when the child is either overly neat or unkempt in appearance, either talkative or shy, either aggressive or passive in behavior, living in an untidy home or a home with a stepfather present, pulled out of school to be homeschooled, occasionally sleeps in parents' bed, or if child's other parent has recently been ill or died as CPS believes the resulting stress will drive the remaining parent to abuse

(Next month we will continue this topic and explore when your child is considered "at-risk.")

Dear Gem Readers:

Thank you for the faithful support of the Missouri State Free Will Baptists during the past nineteen-plus years as your National Home Missionary to Delaware and New Jersey. My appreciation is beyond words of expression.

I desire your continued support . . . in a different way. I am no longer with the National Home Missions Department and feel evangelism is the direction of ministry where I can best serve presently.

Thirty years ago, the St. Louis District Association ordained me. I have experienced the center of God's will several times during the thirty-two years of preaching the Gospel message and pastoring Free Will Baptist churches. I desire to be there again. We are walking one day at a time and "waiting upon the Lord" claiming Isaiah 40:31 as our strength.

At this time we are establishing an account in our local bank as MANESS EVANGELISTIC MINISTRIES and are already receiving pledges of support to that ministry. We are scheduling revivals and other services. Open dates begin immediately; however, October is filled. My address and phone number will be provided below.

Sincerely,

Reverend Vergel A. Maness 1530 South Orchard Road Vineland, New Jersey 08360

YOU CAN HELP!

The Pinkertons write . . . "We've been asking in churches if people want to send medical supplies to the Christians in the Bondoukou area. The money has just been cut in half, and the folks could not afford medication even before the cut. This means more suffering. I'm including a way people can send things if they so desire. Thank you very much."

If you desire to send medications, please:

MAKE SURE THE PACKAGE WEIGHS 2 POUNDS OR LESS AND HAS A GREEN CUSTOMS STICKER FROM THE POST OFFICE.
