Why Churches Stop Growing Matthew 16:18

by Rev. Jerry Norris

Every church, at one point in their history, was a growing church. Some churches have experienced several periods of growth. But in nearly every instance, and I say this because over eighty percent of the churches in America have either plateaued or are in decline, that church has stopped growing. Why did that church stop growing? Some will offer various reasons, but I believe there is basically one reason why churches stop growing. Before I give you this one reason let me give some things that do not necessarily stop growth.

It is not a knowledge issue. Most pastors have enough knowledge to grow a church. There are hundreds of church growth books on the market. There are all kinds of seminars, films and videos, and resources people available.

It is not a denominational issue. This surprised me somewhat. In a recent issue of Church Growth Today, I noticed that of the one hundred fastest growing churches in America many different denominations were represented. Since a church is measured from one year to the next, it is rare that a church will be listed more than one year. The fastest growing church in the last issue was the New Birth Baptist Church in Decatur, Georgia. This church went from 4,000 to 6,000 in one year. It is an American Baptist Church, which is basically a liberal denomination. In second place was Grace Community Church in Sun Valley, CA, an independent church pastored by John MacArthur. This church went from 8,000 to 10,000. Third was an Independent Charismatic Church, basically a black congregation, called World Changers, from College Park, Georgia. Among these 100 churches were twenty-seven Southern Baptists, ten Independents, ten Calvary Chapels, thirteen Independent Charismatics, ten Assemblies of God, five United Methodists, three Presbyterians, and three Foursquares. Other denominations represented in the last issue were Church of God, Lutheran – Missouri Synod, Church of Christ, United Church of Christ, COGIC, and Christian Missionary Alliance. All of this says that church growth is not a denominational issue.

It is not a location issue. Some churches are ideally located but have few in attendance. When we began at Calvary Fellowship, there was a church located at I-270 and Page. The church was presented in one of Elmer Towns' church growth books as one of the fastest growing churches in America, and a church with the brightest future. If there was a church that was ideally located, that was the church. Not only is that church no longer at that location, I do not even know if it is still in existence.

It is not an education issue. That is, it is not a formal education issue. Many of the pastors of the largest churches in this country have no seminary training. Many of the "Doctors" are honorary Doctor degrees.

This may come as a surprise, but it is not a spiritual issue. I know that sounds terrible, but some of the most spiritual preachers I know can't build a church. They love the Lord, read their Bibles, and pray two hours a day, but they can't grow weeds! Am I putting down spirituality? Not at all. I am saying that just because a person is spiritual doesn't mean he can build a church. Besides, if it is a spiritual issue, every pastor of a large church would be "spiritual," and every pastor of a small church would be "unspiritual," and that simply is not true.

It is not a model issue. When I was beginning in the ministry, most of my peers wanted to be like Dr. Jack Hyles and First Baptist Church of Hammond, IN. We went to his pastor's school. Today, many great churches are springing up all over the country. Some will go to Dr. Robert Schuller's pastor's school at the Crystal Cathedral. They will return home seeking to copy that church. Still others will attend Bill Hybels' pastor's school at the Willow Creek Community Church in South Barrington, IL, and seek to copy that church. It is probably the most popular model today. But there is no one model. Growing churches come from every denomination, are pastored by all kinds of preachers, and are situated in every part of the country.

Back to my original question: If none of these things cause a church to stop growing, what does? CHURCHES STOP GROWING WHEN THE PRICE BECOMES TOO HIGH! People are no longer willing to pay the price necessary for continued growth.

Churches usually grow to the level of survival. The average church will have approximately 80 in attendance. Why 80? Because at 80, a church can get a piece of ground, have a building, and hire a pastor. What else do we need to survive?

I will illustrate two kinds of growth: easy and expensive. Most churches cease to grow when the cost moves from the Easy to the Expensive. Ask yourself the question, "What price am I willing to pay to see my church succeed?"

The first area we will consider is perhaps the most sensitive.

I. Money

This is always a dangerous place to begin. There is easy growth and expensive growth. When we first began at Calvary Fellowship in the summer of 1978, growth was both fun and cheap. It didn't cost us anything to go from 50 to 125. Someone before me had paid the price for us to achieve that growth. Rev. Al Helms and the congregation sacrificed to make the original purchase. Rev. Duane Hansen and the congregation in 1977 sacrificed to make the building into a place of worship. Growth wasn't cheap for those people; it was expensive, but it was easy growth for us. However, since that time, growth has been expensive. Now that we have voted to construct a Family Life Center and put a new front on our existing building, growth will continue to come at a price.

Someone has prayed that God will provide for our needs. The truth of the matter is that He has already provided for the financial needs of your church. He has provided through His people. It is now a matter of His people giving that which God has given them. The church will cease to grow when people say, "I don't want to spend any more money!"

II. Change

Easy growth brings few changes. Expensive growth means many changes. Resistance to change is not all bad; otherwise, (continued on page 10)

there would be no stability. We would be chasing every new fad that came around the corner. But when change is necessary for growth, then we must consider change. Resistance to change is universal.

The church is the only organization I know that is not pressured to change. If something is not pressured to change, it doesn't change. There is a great deal of comfort in doing things the way we have always done it.

People operate on the basis of two laws. First, there is the law of self-interest. This law states that "people change for selfish reasons quicker than for important reasons." Are there special interest groups in the church? Yes. For example, as we contemplated a new building and all the features to go into this building, a person with no interest in fellowship would feel fellowship space to be a waste of money. After all, we already have a kitchen and fellowship space so we don't need more. But people who work in the kitchen, stay for fellowship at Homecoming or other social functions, or have a wedding reception here will say, "We need more fellowship space." If one sits in a large classroom with plenty of space, he does not see the need for more classrooms. Go next door on an average Sunday morning and one will see the need for more classroom and assembly space. If you care nothing for recreation, you will see no need for any recreational space. Any building program can succeed only when each individual looks beyond his own needs and considers the needs of his brother.

I heard a story of a man who owns a house just north of New York City. When he first moved into that area, it was strictly rural. There were no buildings anywhere. However, as the years went by, they widened the highway into a six-lane superhighway. They built shopping malls, motels, and a convention center. One day a reporter came by to ask how he had accepted the changes over the last fifty years. The old man contemplated the question for a moment and finally said, "Yes, I have seen a lot changes out this way over the last fifty years, and I want you to know, I've been agin' every one of them!" That old man reminds me of a lot of church members.

Second, there is the law of ownership. This law states, "People change easiest when they feel the need or they initiate it." It isn't my early service, it is our early service. It isn't your program but our program. Our church has approved a building program. It is not my building program or their building program but OUR building program.

The church has always been asked to change – not its message but its methods. Some of the hymns we sing were once considered worldly. In fact, any song that didn't come straight from the Bible was considered modernist and liberal. Martin Luther took tunes which were popular in the bars of his day, put religious words to them, and presented them in church. You can imagine the reaction he received to one of those songs, "A Mighty Fortress is Our God."

There was a day when Sunday School was a "change." Two hundred years ago no church had a Sunday School. Of course, (continued on page 10)

Ozark Mission

by Gary Mitchener

Gary & Brenda Mitchener

Missouri Home Missionaries Gary and Brenda Mitchener and the Ozark congregation wish to express their appreciation to all of those who were faithful to pray and support the Ozark Mission in 1994. December '94 was another good month in Ozark. There was one rededication and one was baptized. Our average attendance was 79 in Sunday School and 93 in the morning worship service. The church now has a teen choir which is composed of 15 to 20 teens. They not only provide special music for the church, but they are also being used in other local churches for revival. Please continue to pray and support us until we are a self-supporting church.

GOD MAKES LEADERS Memo

TO: Jesus, son of Joseph Woodcrafter's Carpenter Shop, Nazareth FROM: Jordan Management Consultants

Thank you for submitting the resumes of the twelve men you have selected for management positions in your new organization. All of them have now taken our battery of tests, and we have run the results through our computer. We have arranged for each to have personal interviews with our psychologists and vocational aptitude consultants. The complete profile on each is included for your careful study.

It is our staff's opinion that most of your nominees are lacking in background, education, and vocational aptitude for the type of work you are undertaking. They do not demonstrate a team concept. We would recommend that you search for persons of experience in managerial ability and proven capability.

Simon Peter is emotionally unstable and given to an offensive temper. Andrew has absolutely no qualities of leadership. Brothers James and John, sons of Zebedee, place personal interests above company loyalty. Frankly, they are "mama's boys." Thomas demonstrates a questioning attitude that would tend to undermine morale. We feel that it is our duty to tell you that Matthew has been blacklisted by our Greater Jerusalem Better Business Bureau. James, the son of Alphaeus, and Thaddaeus have definite leanings toward the radical and register high on the manic depressive scale.

One of the candidates does, however, show great potential. He is a man of ability and resourcefulness, meets people well, and has a keen business mind. He is highly motivated as well as ambitious and responsible. We recommend Judas Iscariot as your controller and right-hand man.

All other profiles are self-explanatory.

We wish you every success in your new venture.

YOUTH CAMP '95

The dates for the camp sessions are as follows:

Group II Teen – June 11 - June 16 Group I Teen – June 18 - June 23 (Please note the change in Group order for the teen session only.)

Group I Pre-Teen – July 23 - 28 Group II Pre-Teen – July 30 - August 4

This year there will be an increase in camp fees from $40.00 to $45.00. Due to the improvements made to the camp, as well as the rising costs of maintaining the camp, the camp board felt that it was necessary to raise the fees. It is our desire to continue making improvements to our Missouri State Youth Camp.

Another change to the camp sessions this year will be in the area of insurance. We have switched our insurance carrier and have gone to an "Excess Policy." This means that if any accidents occur during a camp session, the camper will be asked to turn the claim in to his or her primary insurance. The camp's insurance will then pay any deductibles or unpaid balances. If the camper does not have insurance, then the camp's insurance will become primary insurance. Please note that the camp's insurance is for accidents only.

We look forward to the upcoming camp sessions and pray that God will give us another great year at our Missouri State Free Will Baptist Youth Camp. Thank you for your prayers and financial support; there would be no Youth Camp without them. Thank you most of all for sending your youth to camp. We take very seriously the responsibility of providing a place of fellowship and learning for all of Missouri Free Will Baptist Youth.

J. Reford Wilson, Former Missions Director, Dies

J. Reford Wilson, former general director of foreign missions, died on January 5 in the Presbyterian Hospital in Oklahoma City, Okla., at the age of 70. He had been admitted to the hospital over Thanksgiving weekend. Doctors treated him for a mild heart attack and released him on December 3.

Mr. Wilson was readmitted on December 6 with what doctors diagnosed as a diseased gall bladder. Surgery was scheduled for December 9, but his vital signs indicated he could not survive the surgery. Subsequently, many of his vital organs began to fail. Mr. Wilson was given only a short time to live, but lingered until the morning of January 5, when the Lord took him.

Reford served as general director of foreign missions from 1962 to 1975. He had served many years prior to that on the Board of Foreign Missions and served on the board again after he left the foreign missions office. His 131/2 years as general director plus 17 years on the board totaled more than 30 years with foreign missions.

Following his years of experience as head of the foreign missions program, Mr. Wilson used his missions knowledge and expertise to advantage in the classroom as professor of missions at Hillsdale FWB College in Moore, Okla., from 1975 to 1979. Prior to his time at the helm of foreign missions, Reford pastored for 15 years in Tennessee, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Michigan.

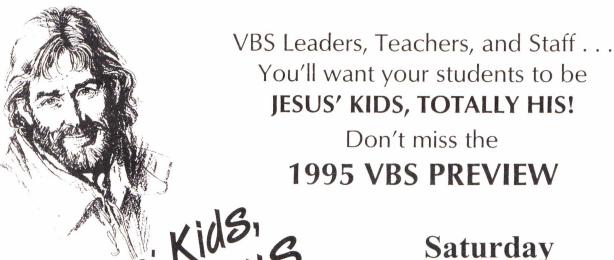

The Wilsons spent from September 1979 to June 1990 in Aurora, Ill., where Reford pastored the Butterfield Church until he retired and returned to Oklahoma. He resumed teaching on a part-time basis in 1992 at Hillsdale.

Funeral services were held on January 9 at Southern Oaks FWB Church in Oklahoma City. A memorial service was held simultaneously at the National Offices in Antioch, Tenn.

Mr. Wilson is survived by his wife, Jean; a son, Jonathan; and a daughter, Rebecca Capp. He also leaves one sister, Opal Wilson, and two granddaughters, Meagan Lane Reddick and Leah Claire Wilson.

R. Eugene Waddell, current general director and longtime colleague, said, "Free Will Baptists have lost a valuable servant leader. Brother Reford Wilson was a leader in the pulpit, in the classroom, at the typewriter, on the telephone, and on the mission field. He was a humble, compassionate servant of the Lord. His love and concern for others won the hearts of his colleagues at home and overseas."

Waddell concluded, "Brother Reford was one of my mentors. He encouraged me to learn all I could about missions. He took me to meetings where I could hear great missionary speakers, and he was one of my cheerleaders. Like thousands of others, I'm going to miss him. May God raise up others to follow his example of servant leadership."

"Their Works Do Follow Them"

by Jim Williams

A small crowd assembled at a church for a special service just one week before Christmas. The sanctuary had a few well-placed flowers, and some of those assembled displayed tender smiles. Others shed tears. What was the occasion? It was a memorial service for a frail ninety-five year old lady who had gone home. That lady was my grandmother. Those grieving the hardest were unsaved loved ones saying goodbye. Those with tender smiles were Christians saying, "So long. I'll see you in the morning."

What few possessions my grandmother still had, she gladly left behind in exchange for all she was to gain. What she left behind is not nearly as important as what she gained. It has often been stated that you can't take it with you, and that is true of the material. The Christian, however, does take with him that which is approved of God. John the Divine stated, . . . "and their works do follow them." (Rev.14:13)

Edith Williams faithfully served the Lord and influenced her three children to do the same. Her first born, a son, waited until late in life to find Christ. Her second child, a daughter, faithfully serves the Lord today and is a member of a Free Will Baptist Church. The third child, Paul Williams, my father, lived an exemplary life of service as a Free Will Baptist Pastor and church planter. He was aided in this service by his Free Will Baptist bride, Opal Boyd. Edith's children gave her five grandchildren. Three of these are very active in the Free Will Baptist movement, Paula McClure, Missionary to Mexico; Ruth Reynolds, pianist at the Carthage Free Will Baptist Church (a talent taught her by Edith); Jim Williams, pastor and home missionary.

Edith left fourteen great-grandchildren, ten of whom are involved in the Lord's work. These serve as preachers, music ministers, youth workers, teachers, and etc. She also left seven great-great-grandchildren who are actively involved in a Free Will Baptist Church. Unfortunately some have strayed, one great-grandchild became a Mormon and another became a Catholic. Both of these entered cults through marriage. This is why the Bible speaks so strongly against being unequally yoked together.

On occasion people have asked me the secret of having all my family involved in our local church. My answer is, commitment, dedication, love for the Lord, love for family, and your roots. Paul made mention of this in II Timothy 1:5 . . . "I call to remembrance the unfeigned faith that is in thee, which dwelt first in thy grandmother Lois, and thy mother Eunice . . . "

I rejoice in the fact that I know the day is coming when I will meet my grandmother again. We will meet around the throne of God where the family circle will be unbroken.

The last years of grandmother's life reflected a profound love for the Lord and His work. She would attend our new mission church every opportunity she had. When we started a piano fund, she contributed $500.00. When her health began to fail, she moved to Branson, Missouri, and helped the mission work there by donating an organ to the church.

Perhaps the most important point I want to make through this tribute is this: If we want the next generation to be anchored in God's work, we must be the right example for them. As a man sows, thus shall he reap. What are we sowing in our home; our church; in our denomination? Let us pray that our fruit will remain and that our works will follow us.

Christ Inspired Many of History's Greats

by Rev. J. Mark Vandivort

". . . Many of men's noblest and kindest deeds find their motivation in love for Jesus Christ . . ." wrote Dr. D. James Kennedy and his associate, Jerry Newcomb, in the introduction to their book, What if Jesus Had Never Been Born? This article consists of summary and quotes from the book.

Kennedy quotes from Dr. Sherwood Wirt's book, The Social Conscience of the Evangelical: "Many permanent legal reforms were set in motion by Emperor Constantine (280?-337) and Justinian (483-565) that can be laid to the influence of Christianity. Licentious and cruel sports were checked; new legislation was ordered to protect the slave, the prisoner, the mutilated men, the outcast woman. Children were granted important legal rights. Infant exposure was abolished. Women were raised from a status of degradation to that of legal protection. Hospitals and orphanages were created to take care of foundlings. Personal feuds and private wars were put under restraints . . . branding of slaves was halted" (p.13).

Kennedy seeks to put to rest the myth often repeated that "more people have been killed in the name of Christ than any other" (p. 7). Some professing Christians have not been obedient followers of Jesus Christ and some have been misguided by both secular and ecclesiastical politics. Also, some Christians have taken up arms to defend themselves. Using the most exaggerated criteria and numbers (including many Evangelical martyrs) about 17 million people have been killed by professing Christians compared with 170 million (many of whom were Christians) who were killed by such leaders as Hitler, Lenin, Stalin, Mao, and numerous others. "As Paul Johnson – the great historian – says, the 20th-century state has proved itself the great killer of all time" (p. 237).

Christians have made outstanding contributions in the areas of science, the arts, music, education and democratic government, including such people as Blaise Pascal (mathematician) and Isaac Newton. Newton wrote: "I have a foundational belief in the Bible as the Word of God, written by men who were inspired. I study the Bible daily. . . . When I look at the solar system, I see the Earth at the right distance from the sun to receive the proper amount of heat and light. This did not happen by chance" (p. 100). A long list of able, believing scientists also includes geneticist Gregor Mandel and biologist Louis Pasteur. Pasteur's research gave rise to pasteurization, sterilization and development of vaccines against many deadly diseases, including rabies, diptheria and anthrax. "Florence Nightingale (1820-1910), the founder of modern nursing, received much of the inspiration for her work from Jesus Christ" (p. 149).

St. Cyril (d. 869) developed an alphabet known to this day as the Cyrillic alphabet in order to translate the Bible into the Slavic tongue. Today, more than 200 million people including Russians communicate nationally using the Cyrillic alphabet. Yale historian Phillip Schaff comments regarding Johann Guttenberg (c. 1398-1468): "The art of printing, which was one of the providential preparations for the Reformation, became the mightiest lever of Protestantism and the modern culture" (p. 43). Italian Franciscan monk, Fra Luca Pacioli, is recognized as the father of modern accounting. Regarding art, Kennedy wrote, "Many of the greatest masterpieces in the world have had a Christian theme or base" (p. 173). The 11th century Benedictine monk, Guiao of Arezzo, is credited with being the father of modern musical notation.

In early America, education was a high priority of the Pilgrims and Puritans as they recognized the importance of people being able to read the Bible for themselves. Virtually all education in early America was private. Kennedy declares: "Almost every one of the first 123 colleges and universities in the United States has Christian origins" (p. 52). This included such universities as Harvard, Yale, William and Mary, and Princeton.

"The Constitution of the United States, declared the skeptical historian H. G. Wells, is 'indubitably Christian.' Because the overwhelming majority of the creators of the Constitution were practicing Christians who derive their political philosophies from the Bible and other Christian sources, it should come as no surprise that they enshrined numerous biblical principles in the Constitution. . . ." (p. 71).

Kennedy declares: Some people have written that the father of our country was not a Christian, but a deist. I believe an honest examination of the facts show otherwise. For example, a book of prayers that Washington used on a regular basis was found in April 1891 among many of his papers. This 24-page manuscript book, titled 'Daily Sacrifices' was in his own handwriting. Whether he had originated these or whether he had merely copied them, historians note that they were important to him. Here is a representative sample of his book of prayers: 'O most Glorious God, in Jesus Christ my merciful and loving father, I acknowledge and confess my guilt, in the weak and imperfect performance of the duties of this day. I have called on thee for pardon and forgiveness of sins, but so coldly and carelessly, that my prayers have become my sin and stand in the need of pardon'" (pp. 68-69). "Washington wrote this to Thomas Nelson in a letter dated Aug. 20, 1778: 'The hand of Providence has been so conspicuous in all this, that he must be worse than an infidel who lacks faith, and more than wicked, that has not gratitude enough to acknowledge his obligations' " (p. 69).

For Christians of all times, the Apostle Paul wrote: "If it is possible, as far as it depends upon you, live at peace with everyone" (Romans 12:18).

News From Tennessee

At the Tennessee State Association last November, it was voted on and approved to change the charter of Free Will Baptist Home for Children, Inc. to Free Will Baptist Family Ministries, Inc. This is now the umbrella name under which are four divisions, namely:

*Trula Cronk Home for Children – This speaks of the six residential houses on the campus in Greeneville, each of which ministers to 6 to 8 children. (Named in honor of the first child of the Home in 1939.)

*PATH Shelter - "Protecting Adolescents and Teaching Hope" – This shelter provides emergency placements for children 24 hours a day.

*The Stanley Foster Care Program – (Named in honor of the founders and first houseparents of the Home.)

*The OAKS Family Conference Center and Camp

Please, pray for Free Will Baptist Family Ministries, Inc. and all the lives that are being touched through this organization. My Thoughts On Hillsdale

My first encounter with Hillsdale came in January 1976.

When I graduated from Union High in Tulsa in 1975, I thought I had the world by the tail. I had graduated with honors and was taking the highest ACT score in Math ever from Union to the big University of Oklahoma. To put things in perspective, my graduating class was 134 — my History class in Dale Hall had almost 600 and my Zoology class had a little over 600. Was I unprepared? I didn't know the first thing about note taking, study skills, or time management. I was entirely overwhelmed. After the fall, I decided to transfer to Hillsdale.

It proved to be my salvation. I made more friends at an institution with 200 students than I ever had at one with over 20,000. My friends from Hillsdale, I count among my closest 20 years later. While attending Hillsdale, I rededicated my life to God and truly for the first time in my life began to seek out the Lord's will for me. However, I was very careful not to date any ministerial students because I was positive I was not "preacher's wife material."

I met Bob Hudson while in my second year at Hillsdale and we were married the following summer. At the time, he was a civil engineering student. After we had two beautiful little girls, and a new home with a healthy mortgage, God called Bob into the ministry. Isn't it funny how the Lord works sometimes? Thus, my second encounter with Hillsdale came as a student's wife. While working full time at the Sunnylane Free Will Baptist church, Bob finished his degree in Theology with an emphasis in Christian Education (because he was certain God intended for him to be on a church staff, not preach).

After Bob finished his degree, I quickly realized the ministry doesn't pay nearly as well as engineering, and I was only qualified to make minimum wage. So, with a great deal of support from my husband and my parents, I went back to OU to complete what I had started six years before.

During my senior year, I became pregnant with our son. He was born on May 1, and I walked through graduation on May 12. With a new baby and two small children, I was confident God did not want me to work full time. Hillsdale once again entered my life.

I began teaching on an adjunct basis in the Fall of 1984, which allowed me to work on my graduate degree at OU and gain some invaluable experience teaching across curriculum. I taught several classes at Hillsdale for the next two years, finished my master's degree, and was able to spend a lot of time at home with my children. During my tenure at Hillsdale, my father went to be with the Lord. The faculty, staff, and students could not have been more supportive and gave me much needed comfort.

Shortly after our fourth child was born, Bob again felt the Lord speaking to his heart and we accepted the pastorate in Neosho, Missouri. My, how far I had come from that girl who wouldn't date "those preachers"! The experience I had gained from teaching at Hillsdale helped me secure a position at Crowder College which I still enjoy.

Eight years later, we pastor the Jones Chapel Free Will Baptist Church in Stella and I have been appointed by the Missouri State Association to represent Missouri on the board of trustees for Hillsdale. At this point in my life, I am fighting for Hillsdale to be all it can be. I have four great kids (the oldest is 16) who I want to see there.

Hillsdale has never been far from my life since I walked on the campus with long hair, bell-bottom blue jeans, and a typical 18-year-old attitude. I am what I am today in large part because of Hillsdale College, and for that, I will do whatever it takes to see it continue and prosper.

WHY CHURCHES STOP GROWING

most churches had a "public" school, making the Sunday School unnecessary. In England, children would work all week long, and Sunday was the only day the kids were not required to work in the mills and mines. Robert Raikes began a school in which he taught reading, writing, arithmetic, and the Bible. It became known as "Sunday School." We have had it ever since, but there was a day when it constituted a change in "methodology."

There was a day when no church had a Sunday evening service. Even the most fundamental churches had no Sunday evening service. Our church fathers saw a tremendous opportunity to reach unsaved people, because on Sunday night there was nothing to do. There were no ball games, no television, no restaurants open, so the Sunday night "evangelistic" service came into existence. There was a need, and a change in methodology helped meet the need.

Even the bus ministry was a change in methodology. There was a day when no church ran buses. Dr. Jack Hyles, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Hammond, IN, saw the possibilities and began this ministry.

A church will cease to grow when people say, "I will change no more!"

III. Commitment

Easy growth requires little commitment. Expensive growth requires much commitment. I have learned that there is a difference between a crowd and a congregation. I really don't expect much from a crowd, except to show up. We have a crowd when we have a group such as the Nelons or the Dixie Melody Boys. We have a crowd on Easter Sunday. I really don't expect much from that group. We have a good day, sing some songs, have a big number, but I won't see many of those until next year or the next musical group. We can average 300 in worship and have 475 on a special day. Our regular giving averages approximately $3,600.00 per week. When I have that large crowd of 475, do you know what my regular offering is going to be? You guessed it: $3,600.00. So why have special days? Because from each special day I get a prospect. It also gives people an opportunity to bring their friends. Even though I don't expect much from that crowd, I do expect a lot from a congregation. I expect those people to tithe, attend church faithfully, etc. There is very little commitment in a crowd, and commitment is essential for sustained growth.

This year we experienced an event that I honestly never thought I would realize. Fifteen years ago we entered into a bond program to build our existing facility. This year we burned that note. At that ceremony we also recognized those who had been with us for at least fifteen years. There were sixty-five people who are still with us. That is the primary reason Calvary Fellowship has experienced a measure of growth through the years.

IV. Non-Growth on the Part of Leadership

Easy growth is doing what you do on the basis of what you already know. That is basically what I do when it comes to the computer. I know enough to do what I need to do, but I could do a whole lot more if I would only apply myself. Many preachers have grown very little since they graduated from college, if they went to college. They rarely read a book on church growth and rarely attend a growth seminar. Expensive growth requires that the individual be ever growing. I am always reading at least one book. I attend as many seminars as I can afford, and some that I can't afford. I have taken courses at the college to enhance my abilities. I believe that church workers should be ever growing.

Most pastors who have pastored for 30 years will say they have 30 years experience. What they really have is 3 years of experience ten times.

V. Motivation

Easy growth is emotion-based motivation. This is easy - you are doing everything because you "feel" like doing it. You feel like coming to church, serving in some area of ministry, tithing your income, etc. Everything is fun and exciting! Expensive growth is character-based motivation. This is when you do what you are supposed to do even when you don't feel like it. If you just read the Bible when you feel like it, there will be a lot of times you won't read the Bible. If you just attend church when you feel like it, there will be times when you won't attend church. If you just give when you feel like it, there will be times when you won't give. Many Christians are like that. Their theme song is, "I sing because I'm happy." Character-based people sing whether they are happy or not. You can't build a church on emotion-based motivated people. They are up and down, in and out. If a church is going to grow and be what it can be for God, it will be because of character-based motivated people. They will be there through thick and thin. They will be there when things are "up," and they will be there when things are "down."

The late Louis L'Amour is one of the best-selling authors of all time. Nearly 230 million copies of his books are in print worldwide, and every one of his more than one hundred books is still in print. Many have been made into movies. When asked the key to his writing style he responded, "Start writing, no matter what. The water does not flow until the faucet is turned on." That's a good word for life. Sometimes, what we need to do is just do something.

In conclusion, when it comes time to pay a particular price in order for your church to achieve continued growth, I trust that you will consider paying it.

Cowart Baptizes Nine in December, Six Saved

Uberlandia, Brazil – Missionary Jim Cowart baptized nine converts on December 4 in Uberlandia, Brazil. Jim says that "gives us a total of 23 baptized this year." He also reported 32 people saved during the year.

During the December 4 service, Cowart preached on the new life of the believer and gave an invitation. Six people responded and were converted. Five of those were visitors.

In the midst of these blessings the Cowarts have been experiencing a financial crunch as their mission account slipped to a deficit of $6,365.21 at the end of November. Although they are scheduled to begin furlough in May, Jim and Karen urgently need financial help now.

The Youth Look

by Ann Poletti

A story is told of Brad, a shy boy who was new to town. Being new to town was bad enough but, when one is as shy as Brad, making new friends is almost impossible. It hurt Brad's mother to stand by the window at the end of each school day and watch the other kids as they walked and laughed together . . . then look farther up the path to see Brad trudging along behind, quiet and alone.

One day, Brad came in and announced to his mother that Valentine's Day was coming up soon, and he desired to make special cards for each kid in his class. Brad's mother tried to subtly discourage him – after all, why would such a sweet boy want to make cards for kids who totally ignored him? After seeing how much this meant to Brad, his mother bought all the supplies he would need and then watched as he painstakingly designed the cards.

Valentine's Day came, and Brad excitedly stacked his cards with his books and rushed off to school. Sadly, his mother did her daily chores and made warm cookies for her son. She was certain he'd not get many cards and would be heartbroken.

As she took her daily post at the window, the same scene unfolded – only, today, the other kids had stacks of cards . . . while Brad had none. His mother grabbed him to comfort him but his face glowed as he exclaimed, "Oh, Mom, I didn't forget one! Not a single one!"

We could learn a lot about love from young Brad. He focused on what he gave – not on what he received. I can picture our Lord, rejected and despised by those He died for, telling His Father, "I died for them all! I didn't leave out a single one!"
