

It's About the

Because of your gifts to the WMO, the gospel continues to reach people who have never heard it. People have Bibles in their heart languages. Missionaries have the infrastructure and support needed to allow them to keep ministry their focus. New missionaries had their accounts boosted with start-up funds. Students experienced cross-cultural ministry. Field teams and partner ministries benefitted from teams who came to their fields and met specific needs.

Each Sunday, an average of 52,096 believers
gather in Free Will Baptist-affiliated churches outside North America.

A young girl shared she came to trust God's faithfulness in the face of pain and grief as she watched her family's reaction to her sister dying from cancer. The presence of missionaries caring for her sister, her Christian grandparents' constant prayers, and the local church's support served as a stark contrast to the community's response. This caused her to ask, "Why are they different?" and opened the door to hearing of the love of God for His children. Workers continue to mentor her as she considers the big step of baptism.

GOSPEL

A single Bible, given to a tobacco farmer during the off-season, sparked a movement of faith leading an entire community to Christ. From a humble kitchen in Havana to the fields of Las Martinas, God used ordinary people and simple acts of obedience to plant one of the first Free Will Baptist churches in Cuba.

113 missionaries benefit from the IM office ministry team's support, promotion, logistical and financial expertise, training, and encouragement.

"I was once proud, rebellious, and blind to my sin, creating a version of God that suited me — until the true gospel shattered my illusions and brought me to repentance through His mercy. Now, by His grace, I've been saved, transformed, and welcomed into a Christ-centered church I once misunderstood. I humbly commit to walk in love, truth, and obedience with this family of faith."

What began as missionary efforts from the U.S. to distant nations has come full circle. Believers from Brazil, Panama, and Ivory Coast are carrying the gospel cross-culturally in nations like El Salvador, Ireland, and Togo.

"Trapped in fear and former beliefs, I hesitated to leave the false religion that bound my family — but the truth of Jesus became undeniable, and I stepped out in faith. Instead of tragedy, I found peace, joy, and new life in Christ. I married my companion and was baptized as a follower of the one true God."

In 2024,
201 short-term workers

served with THP,
ETeam, and CMP.

Two years ago, Ivo attended a Bible study because he heard our church helps Ukrainian refugees and he wanted to help, too. He stayed and started studying the Bible. Last year, his whole family was baptized. Today, they actively serve in our church!
